

Alaska Ag Web Search

The answers for these questions are all found on the Alaska Ag in the Classroom website or on Alaska-related sites linked from the Alaska AITC site: www.agclassroom.org/ak

Name _____

Date _____

1. What is the name of the state facility where research is conducted on disease-free crops and development of native seeds
2. How much did Scott Robb's 2004 world-record turnip weigh?
3. Alaska is divided into twelve Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Which district covers the most acreage?
4. Name three different communities that hold farmers' markets listed by the Division of Agriculture.
5. About how many Alaska Farm Bureau members are there?
6. The invasive weed known as butter and eggs has another common name. What is it?
7. What agricultural enterprises would you find on the Aleutian Islands?
8. The Matanuska Colony farming project was part of what government program in the 1930s?
9. Name two kinds of diversified livestock raised in Alaska. _____
10. What is the most common soil order (there are 12 orders of soil worldwide) in Alaska?

This activity from Alaska Ag in the Classroom, with funding from the Alaska Division of Agriculture and the Alaska Farm Bureau. E <mailto:akaitc@alaskafb.org>